Watch Out For Lead-Based Paint Poison

This property was constructed before 1978. There is a possibility it contains lead-based paint. Please read the following information.

Sources of Lead-Based Paint

The surfaces of older houses and buildings often have layers of lead-based paint on the walls, ceilings, windows, sills, doors and trim. Lead-based paint and products that also have been used on various products, including toys, car fenders and bumpers. When the paint chips, flakes or peels off, there is a real danger for babies and young children. They may eat paint chips or dust or inhale the paint chips, window sills or other items which cannot be removed. Children can also ingest lead even if they do not consciously eat paint chips. For example, when children play in an area where there are loose paint chips or dust particles containing lead, they may get these particles on their hands, put their hands into their mouths, and ingest a dangerous amount of lead.

Hazards of Lead-Based Paint

Lead poisoning is dangerous - especially in children under the age of seven (7). It can permanently damage mental development, learning and even death.

Symptoms of Lead-Based Paint Poisoning

Has your child been especially cranky or irritable? Is he or she eating normally? Does your child have constipation and vomiting? Does he or she complain about headaches? Is your child unable to play? These may be signs of lead poisoning. Many times though, there are no symptoms at all. Because there are no symptoms, don't think that you should not be concerned. If you believe your child has been exposed to lead-based paint.

Identifying and Availability of Blood Lead Level Screening

If you suspect that your child has eaten paint or paint chips or has been exposed to lead-based paint, you should take your child to the doctor or health department. If the test shows that your child has an elevated blood lead level, treatment is available. Contact your doctor or local health department for help or more information. Lead poisoning can be treated but it is important to get the treatment as soon as possible. If you are concerned about your child's blood lead level, you should immediately notify the health department.

Check for lead-based paint in other areas in which you or your children are playing. The health department can help you find out if there is lead-based paint in these areas. If you find lead-based paint, you may be advised to remove it from the house.

Precautions to Take to Prevent Lead-Based Paint Poisoning

First, avoid lead-based paint poisoning by removing loose paint from the house. Look at your walls, ceiling, doors, door frames and window sills. Are there places where the paint is peeling, flaking, chipping, or cracking? If so, there are some things you can do immediately to prevent your child from getting it.

(1) Cover all fractures and exposures

(a) Use a brush or old brush and remove all loose pieces of paint from walls, windows, doors, and ceilings.

(b) Remove all pieces of paint and plaster and put them in a paper bag or wrap them in newspaper. Put these bags in the trash can. DO NOT BURN THEM.

(c) Use wet paper strips on the floor in places where there are loose paint and window sills. Use a brush and water to remove all dirt and paint particles. Keep the strips of paper clean, and use this a way and very important.

(d) Do not allow loose paint to remain within your children's reach. When children are put into paint off the lower part of the walls.

Removal, Maintenance and Treatment of Lead-Based Paint Hazards

As a homeowner, you should take the necessary steps to keep your house in good shape. When lead-based paint is peeling, flaking, chipping, or cracking, it is important to remove it. There are many ways to remove lead-based paint from the interior of your house. These methods include sanding, scraping, and painting. These methods should be followed carefully. Before starting, it is important that you protect, isolate, strip, or remove the lead-based paint from the area. This is important with the (2) types of removal: paint removal and painting and repairing.

Lead-based paint is a serious hazard to the health of children. It is important to know where it is and how to remove it. The health department can help you find out if there is lead-based paint in your house. If you find lead-based paint, you may be advised to remove it from the house. Virginia Statement of Tenant Rights and Responsibilities as of July 1, 2020

Tenant Rights

Applications:

Tenants may be charged a nonrefundable application fee of no more than $50 (not including third party costs for a background check) and a refundable application deposit. If the tenant does not rent the unit, the application deposit must be returned, minus any actual costs or damages. (§55.1-1203)

Written lease:

Under the VRLTA, a landlord is required to provide a tenant a written lease. If a landlord fails to do so, the VRLTA still protects a tenant by establishing a statutory lease between landlord and tenant for 12 months not subject to automatic renewal. (§55.1-1204)

Disclosure:

A landlord must reveal certain information to the tenant, including any visible evidence of mold (§55.1-1215), the name and address of the owner or property manager (§55.1-1216) and notice of sale or foreclosure of the property. (§§55.1-1216, 1237).

Security Deposit:

A landlord may require a security deposit of up to two month's rent. Within five days of move in the tenant has a right to object to anything in the move-in report. The tenant also has a right to be present at a move-out inspection, which must be made within 72 hours of delivery of possession. (§§55.1-1214, 1226)

Receipts:

Upon request, a tenant is entitled to a written receipt of rent paid by cash or money order. Upon request, a tenant is entitled to a written statement of all charges and payments over the past 12 months. (§55.1-1204(D), (I))

Privacy:

A landlord may not release information about a tenant without consent, except under certain conditions, which are generally when tenant information is already public. (§55.1-1209)

Fit and Habitable Premises:

A tenant has the right to a fit and habitable rental unit in accordance with the Uniform Statewide Building Code. The landlord must make all repairs needed to keep premises fit and habitable. (§55.1-1220) To enforce the right to get repairs, a tenant must be current in rent, give the landlord written notice and wait a reasonable period. If repairs are not made, a tenant can file a Tenant's Assertion in General District Court. This must be filed no later than five days after rent is due. There is no rent withholding in Virginia, except under repair and deduct. (§55.1-1244)

Repair and Deduct:

If an issue on the property affects life, health, safety, or seriously affects habitability, and a landlord has not begun to address it within 14 days after written notice from the tenant, the tenant may contract to have the repair done by a licensed contractor at a cost of not more than $1,500, or one month's rent, whichever is more. The tenant may deduct the actual cost of the repair from the rent. The tenant must send the landlord an itemized invoice and a receipt for payment to the contractor for the work, along with any payment of remaining rent owed. (§55.1-1244.1)

Eviction:

A landlord may not evict a tenant without following the court eviction process. The landlord first sends a written notice and next the landlord files an unlawful detainer lawsuit. The landlord must get a court order of possession, followed by a Writ of Eviction that is served by the Sheriff. (§§55.1-1245, 1252). A tenant not getting paid due to a federal shutdown of 14 or more days can get an eviction lawsuit for nonpayment of rent postponed for 60 days. (§44-209)

Redemption (Pay & Stay):

After an unlawful detainer lawsuit for nonpayment of rent is filed, a tenant has the right to pay to a zero balance on or before the court date and have the lawsuit dismissed. After a court issues a judgment of possession, a tenant has the right to pay to a zero balance up to two business days before the Sheriff's eviction and have the eviction cancelled. A tenant may use one of these rights only once in a 12-month period. (§55.1-1250)

Tenant ResponsibilitiesRent:

Unless the lease says otherwise, rent is due in equal payments each month on or before the first of each month. (§55.1-1204)

Late Fees:

If rent is not paid on time, the tenant must pay a late fee if the lease requires one. A late fee can be no more than 10% of the monthly rent, or 10% of the unpaid balance, whichever is less. (§55.1-1204(E))

Insurance:

A tenant may be required to have and pay for renter's insurance. A tenant also may be required to have and pay for damage insurance and/or a security deposit, but the total of both the damage insurance premiums and the security deposit may not exceed two months' rent. (§§55.1-1206, 1208)

Access:

A tenant must allow a landlord access to the unit at reasonable times and for practical purposes, such as maintenance, inspection, or to provide services. A tenant must allow access unless the landlord's request is unreasonable. Unless impractical due to an emergency, the landlord must give 24-hours' notice of maintenance. If the tenant requests maintenance, notice is not required. (§55.1-1229)

Maintain Fit and Habitable Premises:

The tenant must keep the rental unit as clean and safe as conditions allow and in accordance with the Uniform Statewide Building Code. The tenant must promptly notify the landlord of visible mold and use reasonable efforts to prevent moisture and mold. The tenant must promptly notify the landlord of insects or pests and must not be at fault in failing to prevent insects or pests. (§55.1-1227)

Fair Housing:

The tenant may have a right to file a fair housing complaint if the landlord or property manager violates the Virginia Fair Housing Act. (§24-96.1 et seq)

COVID-19 Relief:

A tenant not getting paid due to the state of emergency declared by the Governor for the COVID-19 virus can get an eviction lawsuit for nonpayment of rent postponed for 60 days by showing up on their court date and providing written proof within 90 days after the Governor ends the declaration of emergency. Watch Out For Lead-Based Paint Poison

This property was constructed before 1978. There is a possibility it contains lead-based paint. Please read the following information about lead-based paint poisoning.

Sources of Lead-Based Paint

The interiors of older homes and apartments often have layers of lead-based paint on the walls, ceilings, window sills, doors and door frames. Lead-based paint and primers may also have been used on outside porches, railings, garages, fire escapes and lamp posts. When the paint chips, flakes or peels off, there may be a real danger for babies and young children. Children may eat paint chips or chew on painted railings, window sills or other items when parents are not around. Children can also ingest lead even if they do not specifically eat paint chips. For example, when children play in an area where there are loose paint chips or dust particles containing lead, they may get these particles on their hands, put their hands into their mouths, and ingest a dangerous amount of lead.

Hazards of Lead-Based Paint

Lead poisoning is dangerous - especially to children under the age of seven (7). It can even cause mental retardation, blindness and even death.

Symptoms of Lead-Based Paint Poisoning

Has your child been especially cranky or irritable? Is he or she eating normally? Does your child have stomachaches and vomiting? Does he or she complain about headaches? Is your child unwilling to play? There may be signs of lead poisoning. Many times though, there are no symptoms at all. Because there are no symptoms does not mean that you should not be concerned if you believe your child has been exposed to lead-based paint.

Advisability and Availability of Blood Lead Level Screening

If you suspect that your child has eaten chips of paint or someone told you this, you should take your child to the doctor or clinic for testing. If the test shows that your child has an elevated blood lead level, treatment is available. Contact your doctor or local health department for help or more information. Lead screening and treatment are available through the Medicaid Program for those who are eligible. If your child is identified as having an elevated blood lead level, you should immediately notify the Community Development or other agency to which you or your landlord is applying for rehabilitation assistance so the necessary steps can be taken to test your unit for lead-based paint hazards. If your unit does have lead-based paint, you may be eligible for assistance to abate that hazard.

Precautions to Take to Prevent Lead-Based Paint Poisoning

You can avoid lead-based paint poisoning by performing some preventive maintenance. Look at your walls, ceilings, doors, door frames and window sills. Are there places where the paint is peeling, flaking, chipping, or powdering? If so, there are some things you can do immediately to protect your child:

- Cover all furniture and appliances;
- Get a broom or stiff brush and remove all loose pieces of paint from walls, woodwork, window wells and ceilings;
- Sweep up all pieces of paint and plaster and put them in a paper bag or wrap them in newspaper. Put these packages in the trash can. DO NOT BURN THEM;
- Do not leave paint chips on the floor in window wells. Dump mop floors and window sills in and around the work area to remove all dust and paint particles. Keeping these areas clear of paint chips, dust and dirt is easy and very important; and
- Do not allow loose paint to remain within your children's reach since children may pick loose paint off the lower part of the walls.

Homeowner Maintenance and Treatment of Lead-Based Paint Hazards

As a homeowner, you should take the necessary steps to keep your home in good shape. Water leaks from faulty plumbing, defective roofs and exterior holes or breaks may admit rain and dampness into the interior of your home. These conditions damage walls and ceilings and cause paint to peel, crack or flake. These conditions should be corrected immediately. Before repainting, all surfaces that are peeling, cracking, chipping or loose should be thoroughly cleaned by scraping or brushing the loose paint from the surface, then repainted with two (2) coats of non-lead paint. Instead of scraping and repainting, the surface may be covered with such as wallboard, gypsum, or that when lead-based paint is ingested or inhaled, it creates lead poisoning. The dust can enter breathing it or swallowing it. paint removal could create a which may cause poisoning if long period of time. Whenever removal of lead-based paint is when there are no children or on the premises. Simply paint lead-based paint surfaces do the hazard. Remember that play a major role in the prevention.
